For Twenty Years

Other chills remedies have sprung up and flourished for a brief season and then passed away—e'en from memory—but for twenty long years Chestam's Chill Tonic has been in the field of action. The reason is simple. It has merit. It actually cures Chills and Fevers while the majority of others merely promise to. One bottle guaranteed to cure any one case.

The Knocker

The Knocker is an offspring of Indians and Negroes. He is an only child and like most Indian children generally spoiled. He never reaches real maturity. Success in other fields hurts him like a tight shoe.

When he grows up he goes into the laundry business, and wherever he goes he carries with him a lot of soiled linen and a clothes line. Having no property of his own and being too poor to rent, he becomes a "boothie" making his headquarters in the offices of other people. There he sets up his job, stretches his line and remains till you question him with a polite invitation to come again some time when you are not so busy.

The Knocker always gets business for the firm that doesn't pay for salary. As soon as his own firm finds out about him it is rented without notice or pay. Nobody wants his company. An employment is a dangerous business policy. His words are without trust. No one places any confidence in even the good things he says, for they are attributed to sinister motives.

He is a business vandal, continually tearing down without replacing anything better, an unwholesome creature with a bad heart, and eyes that are set so close together that he can peep through a keyhole with both of them at once. He can't look you in the face for love or money.

In the quadruped kingdom he would be either a hyena or a skunk or a cross breed. Among the birds of the air he would be a cuckoo in disposition with a crow's complexion, while as a reptile he would be a rattle-snake. He does everybody, relatives included. Relatives are usually his first victims because they are decent enough to have some confidence in him. He is the one man who can perform that wonderful contortionistic feat of getting beneath himself. He is as dangerous to a community as a leper let loose.

When you meet a "Knocker" don't patronize him. Don't listen to him, hit him in the place where his brains ought to be and kick him where they are.—Spanish American.

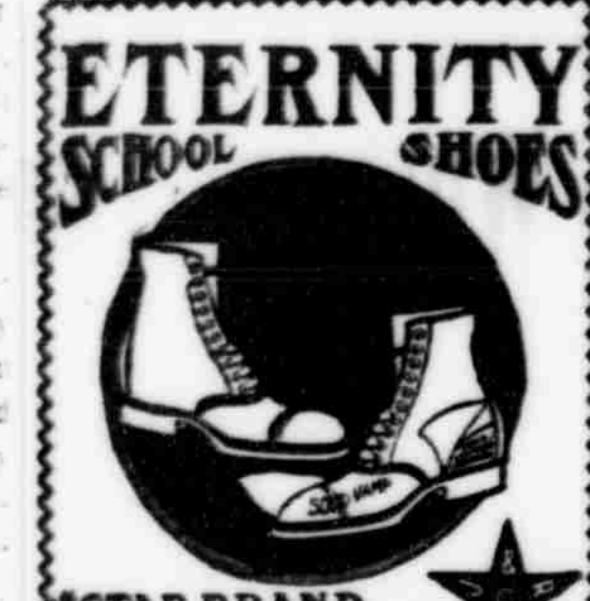

FOR SALE—160 acres patented land, being the east half of the Morgan and Grubbs ranch including half the improvements which consist of a 10-room dwelling, 50 ft. barn, 16 ft. storm cellar with stone walls, a good well and windmill and some fruit trees. Has a good 3-wire fence all around it with about 30 acres broken. A fine farm at a bargain on easy terms.

Other patented lands for sale. Particulars on application.
Office on Main St. for rent, or building for sale.
